Activity:

Your manager wants you to ask some users the following questions:

First question – is the button on the bottom right corner the best place for the link to the production report? (note that this button currently gives an error on iPhones, this should be fixed in two weeks)

Second question – Should we add the ability to schedule a report?

Third question – the developers feel like the green button for contacting us is too small, what do you think?

Fourth question – how long should we wait before you are automatically logged out?
